

Grain Grading Workshop

August 21 & 22, 2019
Ziegler CAT Facility, Altoona, Iowa

This one-day hands-on workshops will feature the latest information on grain quality. The Grain Grading workshop will address and display many different grain samples for corn and soybeans. Presentations on the grading and appeal process will be given. Participants will learn what the official U.S. grades are and how to obtain a representative sample. Attendees will also learn how to recognize major grain damage factors.

The workshops will be under the direction of Federal Grain Inspection Service inspectors from the National Grain Center.

Each class is limited to 30 registered students. Please indicate your date preference on the form below. Students will be assigned on a first come, first-serve basis. The second 2019 class is held on Aug 21st and Aug 22nd. AAI will attempt to schedule you according to your preference. When this is not possible, you will be called. Your confirmation letter will specify your class date. Sorry, no walk-in students can be accepted.
