

Now interviewing for summer 2018 intern positions!

Stateline Agronomy is looking for summer intern candidates to support our Stateline scout and Project Horizon projects this summer. Students pursuing a course of study in an Ag related degree are preferred. Our previous internship programs have been very successful for both Stateline and our participating interns. Please submit any names and contact information to Mitch Giesking or Aaron Schwartz at Ringsted. Our intent is to start interviewing immediately and finalize the class of 2018 by Jan 31, 2018.

Training will be provided as well as continuing education through the summer. A background in Ag is not required but always helps. Activities will include and are not limited to scouting corn and soybeans, tracking crop development, and taking tissue samples. Other activities include tours of SLC grain, and agronomy facilities. Special projects such as drone flights, soil sampling, and satellite imagery are also assigned. We are also looking for one junior or senior to help our master agronomist with research and field trials.

For 2018 we will be hiring 5 or 6 qualified interns to fulfill our needs.

Mitch and Aaron can be contacted at the Ringsted location in person or by the following:
